

Coastal Hills Community Project (CHCP) Connecting Our Coastal Hills

CHCP is your community organization. The Coastal Hills Community Project was founded by local residents in 2000 in an effort to connect the diverse residents of the coastal hills surrounding Fort Ross School. Currently, these are the projects the organization maintains:

- Community Markets: The Sunday Community Market, held on the grounds of Fort Ross School, is a showcase of the incredible bounty produced, grown, baked, and created by your friends and neighbors. When you shop at the market, you are supporting people who are invested in the community's future.

All vendors are welcome. A 10% donation of total sales is requested to help pay for organizational costs such as liability insurance, utilities and rental fees to Fort Ross School, and donations to the community.

- CHCP Bulletin: The email Bulletin is an integral part of connecting the coastal hills community. The service is free and open to all members of the community to share, inform, and notify subscribers of items of general interest to residents of the coastal hills.

- Red Shed Lending Library: Do you need a good read? Do you have books to share? The Red Shed is located on the Fort Ross School campus, open during school hours (pick up key in office) and on Sundays during the Community Market (10am-noon).

- Community Investment: With the generous support of our individual and market donations, CHCP is proud to have helped fund Fort Ross School enrichment programs, provided meals and support to volunteers on back-to-school clean up days, invested in our local fire departments, and helped build the Red Shed Lending Library!

Please contact CHCP if you have any ideas, questions, or community concerns. Tax-deductible donations are also welcome!
